Happiness Happens Month

Happiness Happens Month is celebrated annually in August. It was created by the Secret Society of Happy People (SOHP) in 1999 to encourage people to share their happiness and recognize the moments of joy in their daily lives. The goal of this month-long celebration is to promote a positive outlook and inspire people to spread happiness.

Here are some key aspects of Happiness Happens Month:

History: Initially started as “Admit You’re Happy Day” on August 8, it expanded to a whole month of happiness celebration due to its popularity.

Activities: Throughout August, individuals and communities are encouraged to engage in activities that promote happiness. This can include sharing positive stories, organizing community events, practicing gratitude, and recognizing the happy moments in their lives.

Purpose: The main aim is to focus on the positive aspects of life and to share that positivity with others. It’s a reminder to appreciate the small joys and to encourage a culture of happiness.

Participation: Anyone can participate in Happiness Happens Month. It’s a time for individuals to share what makes them happy and to spread that joy to those around them. This can be done through social media posts, community events, or even family gatherings.

Personal Reflection: Taking time to reflect on what makes you happy and finding ways to incorporate more of those things into your daily routine.

Impact: The celebration has gained traction over the years, with various organizations and communities around the world taking part in promoting happiness and well-being during August.

A few Happiness Happens Month Activities you can do your own, or with others:

- ** Gratitude Journals: Start a gratitude journal and write down three things you’re grateful for each day.
  - ** Random Acts of Kindness: Perform random acts of kindness, such as paying for someone’s coffee, leaving a kind note for a coworker, or volunteering at a local shelter.
  - ** Happiness Jar: Create a happiness jar where family members write down happy moments or achievements on slips of paper and place them in the jar.
  - ** Mindfulness and Meditation: Incorporate mindfulness practices or meditation into your daily routine.
  - ** Family Fun Day: Plan a special day with family or friends, such as a game night, movie marathon, or a day trip.
  - ** Creative Expression: Engage in creative activities like painting, writing, dancing, or playing music.
- By highlighting and celebrating happiness, Happiness Happens Month aims to foster a more joyful and connected world.
- Wishing you a very Happy Happiness Happens Month!

Cats, Presidents, and Seniors

“My respect for the country has increased significantly. People are waving at me, and they are doing it with ALL their fingers.”
—Pres. Jimmy Carter

Wipe your brow, teachers, and prepare to resume your duties. Parents hold your glee until your children are back in school and you’re released from your loving guard duty. August 17th is the end of dog days and the beginning of cat days, meow. Cat days stem from an old Irish legend that cats have nine lives. Part of a poem by V. Neumann goes like this: So, if in mid-August you should hear the cats yowl amongst sounds of the locust when cats are on the prowl, then you will know as lore was told over time, that cats will show lives as many as nine. I don’t know about nine lives, but cats share 95% of their genetic makeup and behaviors with tigers. I guess that explains why I avoid my daughter’s cat who growls, spits, and acts as if she’d like to bite my nose off when I’m visiting. I’m told that cats are unable to taste sweet foods so my theory is that if she did bite my nose off, she wouldn’t like the taste since I’m such a sweetie. When my husband read that last sentence, he looked askance, then started laughing. I think my feelings are hurt.

Some other August folklore declares the date of the first heavy fog will be the date of the first hard frost in October; and an unusually warm first week of August means the winter will be white and long.

Are you as tired of all the 2024 Presidential Election hoo-ha as I am? I won’t burden you by adding my two cents to your misery but am letting you know that August 11th is Presidential Joke Day. Interpret that however you want, but the day itself is built upon a joke by former President Reagan. During a soundcheck for his Saturday NPR radio broadcast, Reagan said, “My fellow Americans, I’m pleased to tell you today that I’ve signed legislation that will outlaw Russia forever. We begin bombing in five minutes.” While networks had been keeping comments made during soundchecks private since 1982, this particular feed was leaked to the general public. The joke eventually aired on CBS news. His supporters loved it; his critics and Russia did not. Imagine that.

Lastly, for you younger adults reading this, August 21st is Senior Citizens Day. I proudly proclaim that I are one and I’ve had a mostly good long life. I’ve learned a lot because with age comes wisdom; the knowledge that life is short and what matters are those we love and how we spend our allotted time on earth. The goal of Senior Citizens Day is not only to show our appreciation for all our elders do, but to raise awareness of the conditions that many older people live in and the struggles they face. Therefore, take time to talk with seniors you know and really listen to what they have to say. You just might learn something worthwhile. And, don’t forget, bingo is a great game for seniors so invite them to go with you. You’ll both be blessed in more ways than one. Until next time, may Lady Luck blow you kisses as you dance out the door with dollars. Win big. Contact: nlpvzw6172@gmail.com

Lucky Lotto News

Dad’s Winning Strategy
A Michigan man won a $7.19 million lottery jackpot after his dad suggested he try a new strategy. “I have been playing Lotto 47 for a long time, and would always switch up my numbers,” the 38-year-old man said. “One day, my dad told me I should pick a set of numbers and stick with them, so that’s what I did. I purchased an online subscription and have been playing the same set of numbers for a few years. A ticket he bought online matched the winning Lotto 47 numbers this past May. “I saw an email from the lottery saying I’d won a prize, so I logged into my lottery account, and that’s when I saw $7.19 million pending,” the man said. “I was in total shock and instantly thought how my dad had been right.” He recently visited Michigan Lottery headquarters and chose to receive his prize as a one-time lump sum of about $4.9 million. The man, who chose to remain anonymous, said he plans to invest and put money into college funds for his children. “Winning feels surreal,” he said. “It still hasn’t sunk in that I’m a millionaire.”

Luck Strikes Again
Winning the lottery appears to be becoming a tradition for one local family. Thomas Ensko won $1 million on a Mega Millions ticket. He claimed his prize in June at the Massachusetts State Lottery headquarters in Dorchester. It’s a somewhat familiar routine. According to the Lottery Commission, Ensko’s wife also won $1 million—more than 20 years ago, on an instant ticket. In a press release from MassLottery, Ensko said the numbers he chose are based on similarities to his birthdate. “I’ve been playing the same numbers for the last 20 years,” he said. To win $1 million, Ensko had to match all five numbers, but not the Mega Ball.

He beat some pretty long odds—he had a 1 in 12,607,306 chance to get the five numbers correct. Ensko said he planned to use the money to help his children and grandchildren.

Lucky License Plate
A Maryland woman has her license plate number to thank for a recent windfall. The 50-year-old woman, who has not been identified, told Maryland Lottery officials she originally disliked her tag number, 91104. At one time, she even requested for it to be changed—only to have her request denied. But after a few years with her license plate, she said she began seeing the number pop up in unusual places. “It kept appearing everywhere,” she said. “I saw it on paperwork at my job, on other car tags, on TV, everywhere.” She then began playing the numbers a few times a week, but she never imagined she would actually win. “I really never thought it would actually come out,” she explained to lottery officials in an interview published on the Maryland Lottery website. Then a recent $1 Pick 5 ticket led to her winning $50,000. Her husband checked the numbers, and, as a result, he was the one who delivered the news to his wife. “I just started crying,” the winner said. Her husband shared that the win “could not have come at a better time” for them. They plan to use part of their winnings to pay bills and save the rest. News of the Maryland woman’s win comes just a few months after a Maryland man made headlines for winning the Pick 5 lottery game three times in 11 months by playing the same number, 48548, each time.

Getting Creative with Corn

Dear Annie,
My husband and children love corn. Can you make some suggestions for recipes that include a lot of corn? Thanks for your help.
—Liana from California

Dear Liana,
I have two recipes for corn casseroles that I have been preparing for family and friends for over forty years. I hope your family enjoys both of them! —Annie

MOCK CORN SOUFFLE

2 eggs, beaten
1 cup milk
2 16-ounce cans creamed corn
2 cups Bisquick mix
4 ounces canned green chilies, chopped
½ pound Monterey jack cheese, grated

In a large bowl, beat the egg, add the milk, Bisquick mix and creamed corn. Place one-half of the batter into a 9- by 13-inch

Pyrex/glass baking pan. Do not use a foil pan. Layer with one half the grated cheese. Top with chilies and cover with remaining batter. Add the remainder of grated cheese. Bake for 30 to 45 minutes at 350 degrees. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

CREAMED CORN CASSEROLE

1 egg, beaten
1 16-ounce can whole corn (retain 3 tablespoons of the liquid in the can)
1 16-ounce creamed corn
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1/3 cup half and half cream
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
24 soda crackers, crumbled

Mix all of the above ingredients in a casserole dish at least 1 ¾ quarts in size. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Speed Count

Speed Count is a playing technique for blackjack that allows average players to play with an edge over the casino. It is remarkably easy to learn and use. I was involved in the development of Speed Count, and I’ve taught it to players in courses over the past many years. Here are the most frequently asked questions about Speed Count.
How did you get involved with Speed Count?

I met Dan Pronovost, the developer of Speed Count, in cyberspace. He emailed me an article for publication in my Blackjack Insider newsletter. Dan is a mathematical genius and developer of blackjack training software programs (www.handheldblackjack.com). One day I called Dan and asked him about developing an easy method that would allow average players to get the edge when they play blackjack. My goal was to bridge the gap between a basic strategy player (with a negative expectation) and a full-fledged card counter, who takes some serious time to master a traditional counting system.

I wanted something simple that players could use to give them an edge. Dan took the challenge very seriously and began investigating different techniques when he hit upon the idea that eventually became Speed Count. The rest, as they say, is history.

How long did it take to develop Speed Count?

Over a year. When Dan first came upon the idea of Speed Count, he emailed the results of his computer simulations to me. In the beginning I was shocked at the simplicity of Speed Count and the fact that something so simple would give the player an edge. Dan kept optimizing the Speed Count system with more and more computer simulations, while sending me the results. I was a sounding board, offering advice and suggestions on what he was developing based on my 30+ years as a card counter and instructor. Dan probably ran a trillion computer sims to optimize the system (that includes the bet spread, starting counts, the optimum basic strategy, insurance and departure indices, and more). Dan is very detailed, and he put in a tremendous amount of effort to develop and fine tune Speed Count so it would meet our objectives.

What makes Speed Count different than other counting systems?

Many players have difficulty with traditional counting systems because they can’t keep the mental sum of the positive and negative integers as the cards are dealt. Speed Count is simpler. You simply add one for the small cards that appear on the layout (2 through 6) and then at the end of the round, when you have plenty of time, you subtract one for the number of players and the dealer. That’s it! It’s that simple. The Speed Count will tell you when you have the edge on the next hand and should bet more.

How can players learn more about Speed Count?

Speed Count is described in detail in the book, Golden Touch Blackjack Revolution by Frank Scoblete, which is available at amazon.com.

Who would benefit from Speed Count?

Speed Count is ideal for the average recreational blackjack player who wants to become an advantage player without spending months to practice a more complicated card counting system. Speed Count is easy to learn (most players learn it in an hour or less), and more importantly, it’s easy to use in the casino (so you can still have fun playing). It is perfectly legal to use Speed Count (you are only using your head). It is a great tool for the masses of players that enjoy playing blackjack.

Nevada Happenings

Eagles Will Do Sphere
Long rumored and now confirmed, the Eagles will play a mini-residency at Sphere in September and October. “Eagles—Live In Concert at Sphere” will run for eight shows over four weekends; the dates are: Sept. 20, 21, 27, and 28; and Oct. 11, 12, 18, and 19. Not that they need a bio, but these guys are the biggest-selling American rock band in all of history, 150 million albums and six Grammys to their credit, in their 53 years of existence. Tickets start at $175 and that includes all fees and taxes.

Electric Playhouse Opens
The new dedicated non-digital playground at Luxor opened in June at the Forum Shops at Caesars. Electric Playhouse is a 10,000-square-foot social-gaming destination that “merges the digital and physical worlds into one through dozens of motion-activated games and experiences, where bodies become the controllers, encouraging active play and healthy movement.” There’s no need for headsets or gadgets, as the walls and floors respond to players’ actions in seven different play areas. Unlike Play Playground, kids are welcome at Electric Playhouse. Admission prices are $20 local kids, $25 other kids and local adults, $30 for non-local adults.

iHeartRadio Music Festival Returns
The annual iHeartRadio Music Festival, scheduled for Sept. 20-21 at T-Mobile, has announced its headliner lineup, including but not limited to Doja Cat, Gwen Stefani, Keith Urban, New Kids on the Block, The Black Crowes, Paramore, Camila Cabello, Thomas Rhett, Victoria Monét, and Shaboozey. Ryan Seacrest hosts, as usual.

New Favorites Coming to Venetian
New York-based Cote Korean Steakhouse, the best steakhouse in the country according to some reports and the only Korean steakhouse ever to earn a Michelin star, will open sometime next year at the Venetian. It’s part of the billion-dollar investment the owners are making to upgrade the 25-year-old property. The 10,000-square-foot Vegas location will be the fourth for the brand after New York, Miami, and Singapore. The restaurant’s owner attended UNLV and worked in Las Vegas right out of college, so opening here has been a long-held dream. Cote merges Korean BBQ with the American steakhouse; the New York menu offers salads for $22-$24, steak and eggs (filet mignon tartare with caviar) for $62, the Butcher’s Feast (soup, salad, souffle, steak, stew, and soft-serve) for $74 per person, and a la carte steaks from $44 (hanger) to $92 (ribeye). The wine list is long: 1,200 bottles. All the grilling will take place at the tables.

New Salad Counter at Aria
Happy Leaf opened at the Aria food hall, Proper Eats, in the space formerly occupied by Shalom Y’all. Like the other nine outlets at Aria, Happy Leaf’s menu is limited: four salads from $14 for the classic Caesar to $22 for Asian with salmon. There is also a salad bar, a first for the new breed of Vegas food halls: for $15, diners select one green, six toppings, and one dressing; hard-boiled egg ($3), turkey ($5), and chicken or tuna ($6) can be added.

J. Lo Cancels
Jennifer Lopez canceled her summer tour, which was scheduled to include a stop at T-Mobile in July. In the most original, creative, and fictitious explanation we’ve ever heard, she claimed she wants to spend more time with her family. That, reportedly, doesn’t include her husband Ben Affleck; current gossip is they’ve separated after less than two years of marriage.
